TO ALL MEMBERS OF PRESS, RADIO AND TELEVISION:

This book has been prepared to assist you in coverage of the Detroit Pistons Basketball Club during the pre-season training period, exhibition season and regular 1963-64 NBA season.

Any additional requirements for statistical material, feature stories, interview, etc., will be handled as expeditiously as possible by George Maskin or me. Both of us are at your service, day or night.

Our training camp will open on Friday, September 13, at 9 a.m. at Boys' Club of Detroit, Livernois south of Michigan, and on September 16 at St. Clair High School Gymnasium. We will stay at the Shore Hill annex of St. Clair Inn (across from St. Clair River Country Club) from September 16 through 30th.

We invite you to come up to St. Clair at anytime and will be happy to arrange for any accomodations you may require during your stay there.

Press credentials for regular-season home games will be sent to you at a later date. However, I sincerely hope you will circle October 16th on your calendar. That's the evening the Pistons open the 1963-64 season at Cobo Arena against the Philadelphia 76ers.

Fran Smith, Director of Staff

FRED ZOLLNER -- BASKETBALL PIONEER

Detroit Pistons President Fred Zollner is one of the pioneers of major league basketball, organizing his first professional team in 1941 as an entry in the National Basketball League.

Success on the basketball floor was not long in coming to the president of the Fort Wayne piston-manufacturing corporation that bears his name. Bolstered by such stars as Bobby McDermott, Paul Birch and Buddy Jeanette (formerly of the Detroit Eagles), the Pistons won the National Basketball League championship four straight years (1943 through '46) and captured three world tournaments (1944-45-46) in Chicago Staduim, then recognized as the pinnacle of pro cage fame.

Zollner and his Pistons led three other NBL teams into the Basketball Association of America in 1948 and the following year joined the National Basketball Association, an amalgamation of the old NBL and the rival BAA.

In 1954-55, the Pistons won their first Western Division championship even though forced to play all playoff games on neutral or opponents' courts due to the presence of the American Bowling Congress tournament at Fort Wayne Coliseum, then the Pistons' home base. After hurdling Minneapolis in the semi-finals for the divisional flag, the Pistons extended Eastern champion Syracuse to the full seven games before bowing in the title game, 92-91.

The Pistons repeated as Western Division champions in 1955-56 and were beaten in the world championship playoffs by Philadelphia.

Despite two consecutive divisional pennants, attendance at Fort Wayne failed to improve and Zollner decided to move his club to a city with major league standards. He decided to wait, however, until after the 1956-57 season, which saw the Pistons share first place in the regular season race with St. Louis and Minneapolis, then bow in the first round of the playoffs.

Through his long affiliation with automotive leaders in Detroit, and because of his firm belief that the Motor City is the world's finest sports town, Zollner negotiated to bring the Pistons to Detroit in the spring of 1957.

In the six years the Pistons have played in Detroit, they reached the playoffs each season Zollner has strived, through rebuilding, to bring the Motor City its first championship in the NBA.

MEET THE COACH

CHARLEY WOLF

There's a saying in sports: "You never know."

How true in the case of Charles Anthony (Charley) Wolf, the new coach of the Detroit Pistons Basketball Club.

It wasn't too many years ago that Wolf's athletic interests leaned in favor of baseball, instead of basketball. The fact is that he dropped out of Notre Dame University in 1947 after one year of varsity competition in basketball and baseball, to sign a professional diamond contract with the Cincinnati Reds.

For the next seven years Wolf roved around the Reds' minor-league system with stops at Ogden, Utah; Columbia, S. C.; Charleston, W. Va.; Saginaw, Mich.; Richmond, Va.; and Scranton, Pa.. He performed at first base most of the time.

By 1954, Wolf could see the handwriting on the wall. His chances of making it to the Reds were virtually nil.

So he dropped out of professional baseball, re-entered college at Xavier University in Cincinnati and then accepted the dual positions of head basketball and baseball coach at Villa Madonna College in his hometown of Covington, Ky. The following year, the chores of athletic director were added to his work load.

Wolf spent six years at Villa Madonna. His basketball teams won 81 and lost 56.

Despite his lack of experience in professional basketball, the Cincinnati Royals picked Wolf as their coach in 1960. He established himself quickly in the rugged National Basketball Association.

His 1960-61 team missed the playoffs by a single game. The following year the Royals jumped into second place in the Western Division with a 43-37 record, a 10-game improvement in the victory column. Last winter the Royals took third in the Eastern Division with a 42-38 record, then ousted Syracuse in the semifinals and battled the world champion Boston Celtics through seven games before falling in the Eastern Division finals.

Wolf is acknowledged as one of the finest fast-break coaches in the game today. Under Wolf the Royals set a league record for field goal proficiency in 1961-62 with a .452 average and then broke it last year with a .459 mark.

He's a graduate of Xavier University and helps operate an insurance business in the off season. Wolf's wife, Lorraine, was a former television actress in Cincinnati. They have three boys: Martin 6, Stephen 3 and Gregory, six-months.

WHO'S WHO ON 1963-64 DETROIT PISTONS SQUAD

RETURNING VETERANS

DAVE DE BUSSCHERE: Forward-Guard, 6'6", 220. Born 10-14-40. Lives in Detroit, Mich. Graduated from University of Detroit where he re-wrote the Titans' scoring and rebounding records. Totalled 1,985 points and 1,552 rebounds at U. of D. Had great rookie season with Pistons last season, averaging 12.7 points and grabbing 694 points (third high on team). Started with Pistons at Forward, but after he moved to guard in late November, Pistons played at better than .500 clip. He's slated to be back at forward slot this season. Called by then coach Dick McGuire as "Pistons best player" during the final third of the 1962-63 season. Pitcher for the Chicago White Sox during the 1963 season after receiving bonus of upwards of $60,000 from the Chisox in spring of 1962. Product of Detroit Austin High where he scored 1800 points in three seasons and won All-City, All-State and All America honors. Brilliant golfer. Single.
